

Display

How Computers Work

Greetings Display! Your job is to wait until the CPU tells you to plot an (x, y) point on the screen. When you are asked to plot a point, find the column that corresponds to the x -value and the row that corresponds to the y -value and plot the intersection by filling in the square.

Don't show the image to your group partner(s) until the CPU has finished running the entire program.

